

Teresa Palmeiro, currently she is a member investigator of the GERIA Project - Geriatric Study of the effects of indoor air quality in old care centers in Lisbon and Oporto, financed by Fundação para a Ciência e Tecnologia. She is graduated in Cardiopneumology by Escola Superior de Tecnologias da Saúde de Lisboa from Instituto Politécnico de Lisboa and master graduated in Public Health, specializing in Health Promotion and Prevention by Escola Nacional de Saúde Pública from Universidade Nova de Lisboa. Experiences and research interests include: community service, health determinants and risk factors for health, cardiovascular and respiratory chronic diseases.